Lübbenau at the Small Harbour – Between Hay and Information Board

At the Small Harbour, the old landscape meets the new order: the haystack on the shore, the barge in the water, the information board at the edge — and even the rubbish that hasn't yet been collected remains part of the moment. The image does not romanticise, but allows the present to merge with the old motif. From light, water and scattered splashes of colour, a quiet transition emerges: between preservation and use, between memory and everyday life.
